A great many interesting things can happen down on the farm--and in this story that's just what happens--Tom Cat is a clever whistler and he attracts a whole lot of birds--then he sells them in a bird store. He then takes a ride in his flivver just to get the air.

Bozo Dog must have watched Tommy do this because he starts right out to charm hot dog from a frankfurter stand. It works alright and then he does a juggling act, swallowing one frankfurter at a time.

A short time later Bozo is amused to meet Dickie Duck carrying an umbrella, Bozo thinks this is a great laugh, but Dickie tells him it is going to rain. Sure enough that's just what happens and right then too. Bozo has to run to his house, but the lightning is so fierce he is disturbed many times having to pick the bolts of lightning out of the roof and throw them away.

Thomas Cat rides right along thru the rain, and when his windshield gets clouded, little Jerry Mouse the ornament on the radiator steps back and swings back and forth on the glass to keep it clean.

Bye'M'Bye when it all clears up--Bozo finds Dickie and several of his kids swimming around in his umbrella which has been upset and filled with rain water, Bozo chases them away.

It is only a few minutes later, Jerry Mouse has a big argument with Tom Cat, and they start a marathon. Jerry jumps on a hog and gains speed.

Just two jumps down the road, old man Al Falfa is picking flowers for his wife. The procession of the dog, cat, duck, hog,,and
